Ruth Roland Tells How To Instantly Have a Beautiful Rosy-White Complexion

MISS RUTH ROLAND

New York—The beautiful young actress, Miss Ruth Roland, now successfully starring in that splendid serial "The Adventures of Ruth," is famous for her beautiful complexion. When her friends inquired about it she said: "It's all due to a toilet preparation called derwillo which I use twice daily. The experience I have had prompts me to make my secret public. This wonderful derwillo instantly beautifies my skin and its continued use has made the result permanent." When Mae Edna Wilder, the well known beauty specialist, was interviewed in reference to Miss Roland's remarkable complexion, she stated, "Anyone can have a beautiful complexion when they know how. It's a very simple process. I use the same article in my work, and until you try it you have no idea of the marvelous results. The very first application will astonish you. Go to the toilet counter of any drug or department store and get a bottle of derwillo, then make the following test: Examine your skin critically before your mirror, note carefully its appearance, then cleanse your skin with a good cold cream (Elska Cold Cream I have found to be the best), then apply derwillo as directed. After you have made the first application look in your mirror again and note the surprising change. A peach-like color mounts the cheeks; a baby softness comes to the skin; it makes the skin rosy-white, velvety and radiantly beautiful. It is wonderful for a dark, sallow skin, shiny nose, freckles, tan, oily skin, coarse pores, pimples, blackheads, chapped, rough skin, ruddiness, wrinkles and many other facial blemishes. Now that short sleeves are in vogue you will want beautiful hands and arms. There is nothing like derwillo for this purpose. Derwillo method is absolutely harmless and will not produce or stimulate a growth of hair. It is superior to face powder, as perspiration does not affect it, therefore it stays on better. Over five hundred thousand who have used it have had the same results as Miss Roland and I am sure if you will give it a fair trial you will become just as enthusiastic as she is and always use it in preference to any other powder or beautifier."

NOTE—When asked about Derwillo one of our leading druggists said, "It is truly a wonderful beautifier, away ahead of anything we have ever sold before. We are authorized by the manufacturers to refund the money to anyone who is dissatisfied. This guarantee would not be possible unless the product possessed unusual merit." It is sold in this city under an iron-clad money-back guarantee by all department stores and up-to-date druggists including Kimball & Hulett.

No corns exist with nurses—for they know

Nurses don't have corns. Nor do doctors or their wives.

They know Blue-jay and employ it. So do millions of others now.

It is time that everybody knew this simple, scientific way to end a corn.

Do this tonight

Apply liquid Blue-jay or a Blue-jay plaster. Either requires but a jiffy.

The pain will stop. Soon the entire corn will loosen and come out.

What that corn does, every corn will do. So this way means a life-long respite from the aches of corns.

Corns merely pared or padded rarely disappear. Harsh treatments often cause a soreness.

Blue-jay is gentle, scientific, sure. It is a creation of this world-famed laboratory. It is the right way. It will be the universal way when all folks know it.

Buy Blue-jay from your druggist. Watch it on one corn.

THE BOOK OF DEBORAH
Katherine and Bob Get the Job of Washing the Dishes

I grew more cold and more sane as I saw Katherine Miller's roadster turn into our drive with my husband at the wheel.

"I picked your poor man up just as he was about to board a street car," purred the tiger lady.

"That rear tire blew up at last, Pansy. You know I've had that tire so long I was fond of it. Ought not to have parked the old dear in the hot sun today. It had a stroke."

Bob was trying to be funny, but his words only proved that he was nervous. Even if he had had to walk, he should have been home two hours earlier.

Without commenting upon his explanation, I exclaimed very sweetly: "Do stay and dine with us, Katherine. Your family will have had dinner long ago."

"Come in, Kath. Stay," said Bob. The manner of his speech hurt me.

And so to my dining room came the woman I am most jealous of. In she came to rave over the delights of a bungalow and a table for two.

"No maid?" she queried.

"One of the new fashion," I explained. "She comes by the hour, but not on Sundays."

The present-day servant problem is an absorbing topic with women like Katherine, who have until this year 1920 been privileged to imitate the lilies of the field.

It furnished her with a chance to chatter. No servants on her brother's big estate in the Blue Hills. Only a laundress two days a week at her sister's seaside villa. And such a clan of babies. And on the Bay farm, where her father spends part of each summer, her relatives had to pick the berries as well as can them, and feed the poultry and care for the milk, and make the butter and wash and iron, bake and cook, just like pioneer women.

Bob chuckled, not over the plight of the women so much as over Katherine's horror of their plight.

"Under the circumstances, Katherine, you'd better learn how to wash dishes," I said demurely after she and I buttoned one of my white coversalls over her dainty dress, and rearmy she didn't look pretty in it. She was warm, too.

"I have no maid tomorrow—Sunday—you know. So Bob and I wash up the dishes Saturday night."

I was about to take up the dish-mop when I had an extra inspiration: "Here, Katherine, take this," I said, thrusting the mop into her hand. "You and Bob do the dishes while I go out and cut some of my freak blue gladioli for you. Well that I threw off my apron, snatched up my garden basket and was gone.

Bob had finished their cigarettes. I did not smoke with them. I didn't refrain to please Bob, only because I would look well by contrast to Katherine.

It was breezy in the garden dusk, and it was close in the kitchen in spite of the electric fan.

"They enjoyed their ride," said myself to myself, "but they are not enjoying that dishwashing job one bit. You should worry, Jane Lorimer. They brought this on themselves."

As I cut my last stalk of blossoms, I advised myself thus: "Let them see each other as often as they choose. And do you keep out of the way."

barracks, formerly used as quarters for enlisted men, are being used for storage purposes of the original records of the draft through which millions of young Americans were summoned to arms in 1917. There the data are to be preserved and carefully guarded. The war department requires the filing of draft papers for emergency use in case of pensions or other matters that may come up controversially in the ensuing years.

World war material to be distributed by the U. S. government to various states and territories will include 2,178 pieces of artillery, 3,336 vehicles, 69,164 rifles and 3,916 machine guns. Most of the material will be given to towns, cities and museums.
